CASTRO TAKING CONTROL IN CUBA

FIRST OF THE YEAR and first in the family was the double honor Kip Benjamin Ordway scored by his birth on New Year's Day at Marion General Hospital. The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Rocky Ordway of 596 Adams St. came into the world at 7:52 a.m. Thursday. He was the first of four arrivals during the day, and weighed 6 pounds, 15½ ounces. Both Kip and his mother express delight over his arrival. As the first new Marion baby of 1959, the child will receive a host of gifts from local merchants.

Bid To Alter House Rules Strikes Snag

Move To Cut Powers Of Committee Faces Rayburn Objections

WASHINGTON (AP)—A series of huddles centering around House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) was expected today to stamp out a budding revolt against the power of the House Rules Committee.

The revolt is led by a sizable group of self-styled liberals. The Rules Committee now is dominated by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The liberals seek to limit the committee's power to bottle up legislation. They would do this either by a change in House rules or by the addition of a liberal Democrat to the committee, now composed of eight Democrats and four Republicans.

Rayburn returned late Thursday from his Texas ranch, where he has been vacationing since Congress adjourned last summer.

He wouldn't comment on the rules proposals, but there were clear signs he would oppose them. He apparently was quietly sizing up the situation and lining up his forces for a showdown at the

Son Arrives at 7:52 Adams St. Couple Has First '59 Baby

Kip Benjamin Ordway, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Rocky Ordway of 596 Adams St. heralded the New Year here as the first-born baby at Marion General Hospital Thursday.

The 6-pound, 15-ounce baby was one of four locally who chose New Year's Day to make their entry into the world. Kip was born at 7:52 a.m., too late to hear bells and horns blare out the New Year, but early enough to win a host of gifts offered by local merchants for the first child born in 1959.

KIP'S JAN. 1 arrival apparently was his own idea as Mrs. Ordway had hoped for his birth on Dec. 21, her husband's birthday. The doctor had estimated the baby's arrival at Dec. 15.

The infant is the couple's first child.

The second and third births at the hospital Thursday also brought a first child to Marion and Richmond area couples.

Daniel Lee Conn, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Conn of 938 Kenton Ave., weighed in at 7 pounds and 4 ounces at 10:07 a.m.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kale near Richmond

Revolutionists Enter Havana, Set Up Control

HAVANA (AP)—Advance spearheads of Fidel Castro's revolutionary forces entered Havana today.

Truckloads of bearded guerrilla fighters rolled into the city over the main central highway from the eastern province of Matanzas and Las Villas and sped along the Malecon Sea Boulevard toward the former military headquarters of deposed President Batista at Camp Columbia.

As the Castro forces advanced, Cuba's 6,300,000 war-weary people had two provisional presidents. Neither occupied the chair vacated by dictator Fulgencio Batista, who fled in the darkness of the new year morning Thursday.

The streets of Havana were tense and alive with expectation. The triumphant Castro partisans, who had seemed to emerge armed from nowhere Thursday to take over control of the capital, kept a tight lid on the situation to prevent pent-up public emotion from creating a chaotic situation.

Youthful, bearded Castro early today proclaimed ex-Judge Manuel Urrutia of Oriente Province as provisional President of the republic with his temporary government in Castro's native Santiago de Cuba. Castro apparently intends momentarily to move the government to Havana.

In this capital sits the last vestige of a shell of government named by the junta which Batista left behind when he fled the country early New Year's day. But the government had no control over either the army or the police who now get their orders from rebel leaders installed at Camp Columbia in a Havana suburb.

Troops Unopposed

The Castro troops entering Havana were unopposed. They were led by the Argentine physician, Ernesto Guevara, and Camilo Cienfuegos, two of the rebel chief's hard-fighting field commanders.

A final showdown obviously is near. Castro announced today he would not accept what he called a coup d'etat arranged by Batista. Thus he rejects the provisional government which purports to be headed by Supreme Court Justice Carlos Piedra.

Castro claimed Maj. Gen. Eulogio Cantillo, who headed the junta left by Batista, had betrayed the revolution's leadership by letting the chief figures of the Batista government escape from the country.

While Castro's success in his 25-month-old rebellion seemed close to complete, he still must bring his off-proclaimed choice to Havana and install him in the presidential palace from which dictator Fulgencio Batista fled Thursday.

To install Urrutia in the capital, Castro ordered a mass public demonstration in Havana's Central Park at 4 p.m. today.

The country will remain in a state of paralysis from a general strike ordered by Castro until Urrutia takes over in Havana.

Castro spoke just before dawn to a huge crowd in Santiago, the capital of easternmost Oriente province, after a parade of orators had hailed his leadership and his selection of Urrutia.

Provisional President

Castro said the road to Santiago, occupied Thursday after the defending garrison surrendered, had been a long and hard one. He called Santiago "the strongest fortress of the revolution" and said its triumph was being crowned by making it the provisional capital for some 12 hours, until he and Urrutia go to Havana.

Castro's supporters controlled all communications and every radio broadcast referred to Urrutia as "provisional president of Cuba."

Former President Carlos Prío Socarras, an exile in Miami since Batista ousted him by military coup in 1952, arrived meanwhile in Havana. Prío has supported Castro's revolt from exile. He and all other revolutionary organizations recently agreed to accept Urrutia as provisional president.

There was little doubt that this island republic would accept Urrutia, a former judge about 56 years old who long has been Castro's choice to succeed Batista until free elections can be held.

Castro called a general strike across Cuba until Urrutia was installed. The strike seemed 100 percent effective, thus removing any question of remnants from the Batista regime trying to run the country.

Castro was still in Santiago, the capital of easternmost Oriente province and birthplace of his battle against Batista. Celebrations were being held there.

Program Expanded

March of Dimes Opens Here With Larger Goal

Facing new challenges and new campaign goals, Marion County March of Dimes volunteers today began the first steps toward raising increased funds needed in the National Foundation's expanded program.

Beginning this year, the National Foundation has undertaken research and patient aid activities in the fields of juvenile arthritis, congenital malformations (birth defects), virus diseases and diseases of the central nervous system. The national organization, seeking a nationwide goal of 64 million dollars in the 1959 drive, will also continue its work in the prevention of polio through the Salk vaccine and patient aid and rehabilitation for present polio victims.

A joint proclamation issued by the mayor and county commissioners sets aside January as "March of Dimes Month" and urges citizens of the county and city "to contribute to this worthy cause so the community and citizens may enjoy and receive benefits for the fight against polio."

This year, March of Dimes workers will operate out of new headquarters at 148 E. Center St. The headquarters, made available as a donation to the drive, will be used as storage space for campaign supplies, meeting place for anyone working on March of

U.S. Keeps Close Watch For Safety of Americans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government kept watch today on the safety of its citizens in Cuba and waited cautiously for the formation of a new government there.

Both the White House and the State Department discounted the possibility of major danger to U.S. citizens despite some rioting and uncertainty which followed collapse of the regime of Cuba's President Fulgencio Batista.

They declined any immediate comment on possible steps toward recognition of a new government, now in process of formation under the direction of rebel leader Fidel Castro.

Eastern Starts Some Service After Walkout

Engineers' Contract Signed; Agreement Reached With Pilots

By The Associated Press

Eastern Air Lines readied some of its planes today for limited north-south service in the wake of a 33-day strike by flight engineers. American Airlines remained shut down for the 14th day by a pilots' walkout.

The first inbound Eastern plane at Idlewild Airport from Miami was due to arrive shortly before 1 p.m. The first outbound flight to Miami was set for 2:30 p.m.

About 30 flights were scheduled for today with hopes that full service would be restored by next week.

Some 16,000 Eastern employees prepared to go back to their jobs as the line signed a New Year's Eve peace pact with its engineers, and came to an understanding Thursday night with the Air Line Pilots Assn.

Eastern engineers and machinists walked out Nov. 24, grounding the line's 188 planes. Agreement was reached later with the mechanics, but they respected picket lines maintained by the engineers. The engineers refused to accede to a company request to take jet pilot training. In place of requiring pilot training for the engineers, Eastern announced it will have three pilots on each of its Traffic deaths across the country over the four-day New Year's holiday were occurring today at a rate which could exceed the record for a similar New Year's week end.

More than 40 hours after the start of the 102-hour holiday period, the death rate from highway accidents was slightly more than four an hour. If the pace continues throughout the period, the record of 409 deaths set in the four-day New Year's week end of 1956-57 would be topped.

The National Safety Council has estimated the New Year traffic toll this year will reach 300.

The council said the shock of

6 Die at Rochester Fires, Explosions Bring Death for 28 Americans

By The Associated Press

At least 28 persons — 12 of them children — died in fires or explosions on New Year's Eve and the start of the holiday weekend. Fires claimed 24 lives.

At Rochester, N.Y., a quiet New Year's party in an apartment ended in a fire that killed six persons, including two 5-month-old infants and a 2-year-old girl.

Five of the victims died of asphyxiation.

Fire officials said the blaze may have begun in a pile of newspapers stacked on a landing of the three-story brick and frame building.

At Vincennes, Ind., a fire of undetermined origin killed a mother and three daughters, aged 13, 10 and 2.

Fire in a frame house 30 miles northwest of Seattle, Wash., burned to death three children, aged 4 to 7 years old.

In Texas, separate fires in Houston and Marshall each killed a mother and daughter, making a total of four victims.

At Cambridge, Mass., a man and woman died in a rooming house fire.

At Indian Head, Md., two workmen died when a missile propellant plant exploded and burst into flames.

At San Carlos, Ariz., Indian reservation a senseless New Year's prank resulted in a dynamite explosion which killed a man and a woman.

City Grants Pay Hikes

Galion City Income Tax Given 3-Year Renewal

GALION — Galion City Council, in a recessed meeting Wednesday afternoon renewed the city income tax which was scheduled to expire at midnight that night.

Council also passed an ordinance granting wage and salary increases to all non-elected city employees, and another one annexing the Hessenauer addition, known as Renschville, to the city.

THE INCOME tax measure was renewed for another three years and will expire Dec. 31, 1961. The rate of one-half of one per cent, in effect since the original ordinance went into effect April 1, 1948, will remain the same. All persons who live or work in Galion are affected by the measure.

Several changes in the allocation schedule were made, as council passed the measure unanimously as an emergency ordinance.

The new allocation schedule calls for the expenditure of 30 per cent of the income tax revenue for street construction, 31 per cent for district trunk sewers, 20 per cent for the general fund, 4 per cent for general sewers and interceptors, 4 per cent for park and playground improvement, 7 per cent fire protection improvement and 4 per cent for the operation of the newly-formed city planning commission.

The old allocation schedule had set aside 46 per cent for streets, 36 per cent for district trunk sewers, 14 per cent for the general fund and 4 per cent for general sewers and interceptors.

In 1957 the income tax netted a total of $162,566.60 after all expenses. Up to Dec. 1, 1958, the tax had brought in a new total of $154,742.21 and city officials expected the year-end total to hit $158,000. They did not make any prediction on what the tax might bring in in 1959.

An anticipated 20 per cent decrease in the tax take in 1958 failed to materialize, even though the income was down a little, officials reported.

THE PAY increase, called a cost of living boost by city officials, will affect about 100 hourly and salaried employees. It also was an emergency ordinance. The salaried employees all receive an increase of $15 a month except for the street foreman whose salary goes up by $30 a month. Arthur Fair, the chairman of the finance committee, said the extra pay for the street foreman was granted to adjust an inequity in his salary.

Hourly rated employees will get seven cents more per hour. About half the city employees are salaried and the other half paid on an hourly basis.

The annexation ordinance accepted the Hessenauer addition on the west side of town. The addition includes 42 3/4 acres of land bounded by the Winchester Rd. and Rensch Ave. It includes land owned by the Galion Board of Education on which the Renschville Elementary School is located, the Cemco Industries plant and the properties owned by Mrs. Fred Hessenauer and her son, Harold, and by Jacob and Lottie Schnegelsberger. The ordinance was passed as an emergency.

A FOURTH ordinance was passed giving the safety service director the power to purchase materials needed for the various departments of the city for the coming year.

A resolution was adopted accepting the transfer of funds to finish the year's business.

Receipts Set Record

COLUMBUS (AP)—Speaking of 1958 records: The State Highway Patrol collected an all-time high in fines and bond forfeitures—$2,651,482. That topped the previous record, set in 1957, by $107,000.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes reports 45 per cent of the fines—$1,188,667—went to the state's highway maintenance and repair fund. The other 55 per cent was kept by local governments.

Will Discuss Ethics

Better Business Bureau Official To Speak Here

A talk by John L. O'Brien, president of the Better Business Bureau of Akron, on what constitutes ethical and unethical advertising and business practices will be the highlight of the January meeting of the Marion Sales-Ad Club, it was announced today by Robert Smith, program chairman.

Born in Akron, where his father was a chemical engineer with the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Mr. O'Brien is a graduate of Miami University, Oxford, O., where he was associate editor of the Miami Student, a member of Omicron Delta Kappa and Blue Key honorary societies, and Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

AN AUTHORITY on fund solicitations and installment contracts, he headed various departments in the Cleveland Better Business Bureau before joining the Akron bureau as chief executive in 1946. For the past 10 years he has been a part-time instructor on business ethics in the philosophy department of Kent State University.

The Better Business Bureau of Akron is currently recognized as being one of the most progressive of the 110 such bureaus in the U.S. and Canada, ranking 12th in size among all bureaus. Since 1930, it has won all four major awards offered to bureaus for excellence of bulletin — and is the only bureau to be so honored.

Before entering his present work, Mr. O'Brien was engaged in retailing, worked for several state agencies, and for some years operated his own business. He is a member of the board of governors of the Association of Better Business Bureaus, immediate past-president of the Better Business Bureau of Ohio, Inc., and a past-president of the Advertising Club of Akron.

THE MEETING will be held at 11:45 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 7, at Hotel Harding. Jack Lautenslager, secretary-treasurer of the Marion Sales-Ad Club, said an open invitation to hear Mr. O'Brien's talk, which will be titled "Are There Termites in Your Business?" has been extended to the entire retail division of the Marion business community.

Reservations can be made by telephoning 2-2181 and giving the names of those who plan to attend, he said.

Gets Science Grant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University has announced receipt of a $168,000 grant from the National Science Foundation (NSF) to complete a giant radio telescope near Delaware, Ohio. The 360-foot long instrument, half completed and expected to be operating in 1960, will be employed in a variety of research projects in the field of radio astronomy. It was the NSF's third contribution toward the project, for a total of $272,000 to match Ohio State's $222,000.

Social Security System Found In Good Shape

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special advisory council has completed a year-long study of the nation's Social Security program and found it in good financial shape.

A new schedule of taxes voted by Congress last year "makes adequate provision for meeting both short-range and long-range costs," the 13-member group said in a report made public Thursday.

The tax on both employers and employees provides insurance benefits for elderly persons, survivors of workers and disabled employees. Effective Thursday, both the tax rate and the amount of salary on which it is paid were increased.

Other increases already in the law provide for further tax increases in 1960, 1963, 1966 and 1969. The council said that under present conditions, the scheduled 1969 increase may not be needed. The advisory group was composed of business and union leaders and experts in the fields of finance, insurance and economics. Congress directed that it be named to study the soundness of the Social Security system.

Dies in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Arthur R. Harper, 75, nature columnist for the Columbus Dispatch, died Thursday at his home here. A former field naturalist for the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, his column, "A Leaf From the Rambler's Album," appeared in the Sunday Dispatch for about eight years. He was the author of "Ohio in the Making," a book about the state's historical geology.

Boating Courses Will Be Offered By Marion Group

Classes will begin this month in two boating courses being offered under the direction of the Marion Power Squadron, a unit of the United States Power Squadron, Fred Harden, commander, reported today.

Registrations will be taken for the course in piloting and small boat handling on Tuesday, Jan. 13, at 7:30 p.m. in Harding High School.

The course will cover these areas: equipment and government regulations, rules of the nautical road, seamanship, safety afloat, the mariner's compass, aids to navigation, charts and piloting, and manners and customs aboard ship.

Registrations for a class in seamanship, open to all those who have passed the piloting examination, will be taken Thursday, Jan. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school.

Other advanced courses which are available periodically through the Marion Power Squadron are seamanship advanced piloting, junior navigation and navigation.

The only cost for the two classes to be offered this month is material necessary for study, Mr. Harden said. He noted that the beginning course in piloting and small boat handling is a step toward membership in the United States Power Squadron.

Some Still Say 'I Remember Dobbin'

So auto insurance rates are going to be boosted again.

And President Ike is going to plaster another cent a gallon on the federal gasoline tax.

And there are legislative rumblings about boosting the state gas tax, too.

The price of cars was notched up a little higher this year, as usual.

It wouldn't be so bad if you never had known anything else. But some still say, "I remember Dobbin."

Old Dobbin ate grass all spring and summer, with oats thrown in for additive, to give him that getaway oomph. In winter, he ate dried grass, which was cheap and indigenous. It didn't have to be piped in from anywhere via interstate commerce.

He was easy to park. You unhitched him if you were going to be gone awhile. Otherwise, you tied him to anything he couldn't drag away, maybe a horse block carried in the buggy.

If you felt bushed, you tied the reins around the whipsocket and told Dobbin to "go home." He went, setting his own pace. Most Dobbins always set their own pace. Urging them to hurry was a waste of breath.

There were no head-on collisions. Occasionally, a horse kicked up his heels or bolted, but there was no fatality toll for holiday weekends in the era of the Dobbins. No one went much of anywhere, but on the other hand there was no hurry about getting back.

There was no tax on hay, no tax on oats and no tax on grass. Dobbin, himself, was good for 20 years if he didn't spavin or founder.

And if a driver got lonesome, he could have a heart-to-heart talk.

The automobile is here to stay. It's basic transportation, a prestige symbol, a sign of the times — and a bigger pain in the pocketbook every year.

Is Money on Its Way Out?

Beginning early this year, a controversial adjustment to the credit-card idea will be tried by various restaurants in Wisconsin and Washington whose proprietors will charge 5 per cent service charges on diners using cards. The proprietors explain they will be trying to recover the commission they must pay the issuers of the credit card for the service they perform.

They have a choice between raising prices for all patrons, to recover the cost of credit-card commissions, and charging the cost directly to the users of the cards.

This suggests the possibility that cash customers may be put at such a marked disadvantage if credit-card society continues to grow by leaps and bounds that they will be forced to join it because they can't lick it. The axiom that everybody must pay for credit whether he uses it or not will attain dimensions not dreamed of until recently.

Gresham's law about bad money driving out good money will be modified to say that credit drives out cash. There is no likelihood that the credit card will quit growing in popularity. One large hotel chain now does half of its business on credit-card billing. Besides restaurants and hotels, oil companies, airlines, railroads, auto rental services and American Telephone & Telegraph Co. are carrying on the practice.

Even banks are getting into it. Chase Manhattan Bank of New York City on Dec. 1 announced charge account credit. Cardholders receive one bill from the bank a month. Creditors receive cash at once for all sales slips presented at the bank, paying fees ranging downward from 6 per cent, depending on volume.

It is conceivable that in less than a generation a lot may be born in this country who never will see money. When he goes to kindergarten, he will get his first credit card and thereafter his signature will carry him to his grave, unsoiled by filthy lucre.

Prize in Each and Every Box

Beginning with February payments, social security benefits for more than 12 million Americans will be increased in varying amounts. The total increase in benefits will be about 700 million dollars.

They will be underwritten, however, by increased taxes of more than a billion dollars on approximately 74 million Americans. The taxes will be raised again next year and every three years until 1969. Moreover, the taxable wage base will be increased in 1959 from $4,200 a year to $4,800.

It is mathematically possible that a wage earner who paid a maximum of $94.50 in 1958 could be charged $120 in 1959 and as much as $216 in 1969 — yet there has not been a peep of protest against one of the stiffest tax boosts of all time.

It has not even been described as a tax boost, due to the remarkable success of the federal government in applying a new pattern of psychology to social security taxation.

Actually, it is an old pattern of psychology applied in a new set of circumstances—a pattern as old as the "prize in each and every box" that once made it possible for candy butchers in theaters to make customers think they were getting a bargain. The psychology was to make them think about the prize, not the price.

The revenue from social security taxes is credited to social security accounts, but the money received is invested in government securities, thereby becoming part of the federal government's debt. Thus, it is carried on the books as an account payable at some future date out of anticipated earnings, to distinguish it from ordinary debt which in effect is non-payable because there is no requirement for its systematic retirement.

Not So Much Where as Whither

The contest for Republican leadership in the Senate between Sen. Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. Aiken of Vermont may seem to be of scant interest outside professional political circles. Yet, it has an aspect that makes it unusual, aside from partisan politics and personalities.

Sen. Dirksen, a Taft partisan in the contest for the Republican nomination in 1952, has been moving increasingly toward the Eisenhower position on foreign policy since the beginning of the Eisenhower administration.

Sen. Aiken, on the other hand, has been moving away from the Eisenhower position on domestic policy, though he was one of the original supporters of the Eisenhower candidacy.

In view of the probability that Mr. Eisenhower will continue to stand for domestic policies that will alienate Sen. Aiken and for foreign policies that Sen. Dirksen will agree with, the chances are that whichever faction wins the Republican leadership will be at odds with a large part of the Senate's Republican membership.

Neither Sen. Dirksen nor Sen. Aiken could hope to command solid backing on issues of party loyalty to President Eisenhower.

This would be nothing new in congressional politics. It would be equally true in the House of Representatives if Rep. Martin's minority leadership were at stake. It is certain to be true of the Democratic leadership of Sen. Johnson and Rep. Rayburn; neither will be able to command solid backing on issues of loyalty to the Democratic program.

The question of congressional leadership is never what has gone before but always what is looming ahead, with a view to the next election. In 1960, will the political position of Sen. Dirksen or Sen. Aiken be easier to present to voters in the showdown of the next presidential election?

Two-Man Juggling Act

Justice for Some

By David Lawrence

If you are a labor leader and violate a court order, you may have to pay a fine but the Department of Justice asks the court not to send you to prison.

If you are a businessman and violate a court order, or if you are the businessman's secretary merely carrying out his instructions, the Department of Justice says nothing one way or the other, and the court sentences you both to jail.

This is certainly not "equal protection of the laws" and yet it's what has just happened in a criminal contempt case in Boston where, without benefit of a jury trial, an arbitrary and unusual punishment has been inflicted upon Bernard Goldfine and his secretary, Miss Mildred Papernan. They complied with the court order but were just a few days late.

John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, was convicted of criminal contempt in 1946, and Judge Goldsborough of the U.S. District Court fined him $10,000 but, at the request of the Department of Justice, no prison sentence was imposed.

THE OFFENSE was the violation of a court order demanding that there be no interference with the operations of the coal mines which the government had seized. It was alleged that the labor leader had encouraged the workers to refrain from going to their jobs. The Supreme Court of the United States in 1947 upheld the conviction.

Persons familiar with tax cases say they cannot recall a single instance of a jail sentence being imposed in a criminal contempt case charging failure to get income tax data into the hands of the Internal Revenue Office on the date demanded in a court order.

The whole subject of criminal contempt presents a shocking record of special privilege and favoritism. Congress, by law, has given labor unions certain immunities in criminal contempt cases. For one thing, jury trials are now required whenever there is disobedience of any injunction in a labor dispute.

Congress struggled with the subject in 1937 and came up with a law providing for a new trial by a jury in criminal contempt cases in the "civil rights" field whenever the punishment imposed by a judge, after a trial without a jury, is in excess of a $300 fine or in excess of a 45-day prison sentence.

THE CONSTITUTION is explicit on the matter of jury trials. It says in two different articles: "The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury."

"In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury."

Why is the Constitution being violated? Largely because most American lawyers and judges have accepted the English common law practice on criminal contempt as an unwritten part of the American Constitution.

Perhaps the most notable protest ever made against this continued injustice came from three members of the present Supreme Court in March 1958. It happened in a 5-to-4 decision, as Justice Black in a dissent, concurred in by Chief Justice Warren and Justices Douglas, wrote:

"The power of a judge to inflict punishment for criminal contempt by means of a summary proceeding stands as an anomaly in the law. In my judgment the time has come for a fundamental and searching reconsideration of the validity of this power which has been characterized by a state Supreme Court as, 'perhaps, nearest akin to despotic power of any power existing under our form of government.'

"When the responsibilities of law-maker, prosecutor, judge, jury and disciplinarian are thrust upon a judge he is obviously incapable of holding the scales of justice perfectly fair and true and reflecting impartially on the guilt or innocence of the accused. He truly becomes the judge of his own cause. The defendant charged with criminal contempt is thus denied what I had always thought to be an indispensable element of due process of law—an objective, scrupulously impartial tribunal to determine whether he is guilty or innocent of the charges filed against him."

No more persuasive statement in favor of jury trials in criminal contempt cases has come from anyone else on the Supreme Court, and it may mark a turning point in nearly 150 years of disregard of the basic command of the Constitution that "in all criminal prosecutions" there should be the right to trial by jury.

Pavement Plato

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

Sidewalk scrawls of a Pavement Plato:

As a new year dawns in the world after a record American food crop, more and more thoughtful minds turned toward the problem of overpopulation.

From a domestic angle the situation seems to be that we don't have the appetite to eat what we produce.

From an international angle the problem seems partly to be that the food we volunteer doesn't please the peoples' appetite—and they express their discontent by having more and more children.

BOTH THE rich and the poor countries are having the same problem: No matter what they eat, or don't eat, they produce more children.

The globe is being inundated by a tidal wave of posterity. It is as if people, everywhere, confused by the responsibility of the moment, pass on through their genes the payment of tomorrow.

It is, economically speaking, as if a generation that created inflation in its time also inflated its posterity to water down the individual bill. Who can win in the race to see who has the weakest money and the most poor mouths?

Scientists, like a pack of hounds, bell-tongue in cry after the elusive fox, truth.

They will catch him, too. But not today—tomorrow.

MEANWHILE, ordinary people pay the price of ordinary living, chase a smaller fox, stun one another with personal wonder, and live by a personal star they discovered together, the one big star in the sky no lovers ever shared before.

The atomic cloud darkens. The statesmen and diplomats and politicians argue. They frighten each other. They spend more money to build more bombs. The value of the currency is inflated. People brood over their bills and brooding leads to—well, doesn't it?

Nobody is afraid of yesterday, nobody is afraid of tomorrow. Who will shoulder today?

Strikes vs. Public Interest

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

The rash of 1958's year-end strikes overshadowed the fact that the overwhelming majority of labor-management negotiations last year ended peacefully.

But those strikes which immediately and directly affect the public, such as those against airlines, and New York newspapers, raise questions.

Can the public be protected against a repetition? Can such strikes be banned? What will Congress do?

NO FEDERAL law forbids such strikes. Congress rejected the principle of a strike ban when it fashioned the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947. It's unlikely to change its mind in 1959 as a result of what happened in 1958.

Public inconvenience — last year only small segments of the public were affected — has to be balanced against the freedom of workers to strike and of employers to shut their plants and freedom for both to settle their own problems.

A change in congressional thinking would appear more probable if the time came when a strike damaged the nation as a whole so badly that it seemed necessary to prevent a repetition in order to avoid disaster.

EVEN THEN Congress almost certainly would not forbid strikes generally but aim, instead, at key industries broadly affecting the public. Likely targets: such public utilities as railroads, airlines, telephones, buses, electric power.

But how could there be a fair settlement in those fields if labor, to enforce its demands, could not strike and management, to put pressure on a union, could not shut down its plant?

To try to be fair to both sides, Congress probably would require compulsory arbitration. An outsider would be appointed to listen to both sides and then give a decision binding on both.

Organized labor as a whole, treasuring its freedom to strike for what it demands, is against compulsory arbitration which could force it to accept what it did not want. Management probably would oppose compulsory arbitration, too.

Congress itself turned down the idea of compulsory arbitration when it was passing the Taft-Hartley Act. So did one of the law's authors, the late Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio.

There are two major labor laws: the Railway Labor Act, covering railroads and airlines; and Taft-Hartley, covering most other interstate business and industry.

The Railway Act does not forbid a strike but has built-in machinery for delaying one while efforts are made to get a settlement. It's the same with Taft-Hartley.

UNDER T-H when the President thinks a walk-out might damage the national welfare, he can prevent a strike for 80 days. But under both acts, when all tries at a settlement fail, the strike can start.

At year's end no one seemed more pleased at the way labor and management got along in 1958 than Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

His department put out a statement this week which said 1958 was one of the best years on record. The number of man-days lost through strike idleness was lower than any postwar year except 1957.

Mitchell praised what he called the "statesmanship and maturity of labor and management" for their record in collective bargaining in 1958.

A NUMBER of states have laws whose purpose is to prevent or forbid strikes in public utilities. But the constitutionality of these laws has been questionable ever since 1951.

That year the Supreme Court knocked down a Wisconsin law aimed at preventing a public utility strike. What the court said in effect was that the Taft-Hartley Act does not forbid such a strike; therefore, the Wisconsin law was in conflict with federal law and could not stand.

Every year since 1951 proposals have been made in Congress to ban strikes in public utilities. They got nowhere. They will be offered again this year and appear likely to face the same fate. (The Associated Press)

Adversity Comes Later

By Truman Twill

The first 1959 seed catalog and my first touch of the flu have arrived simultaneously. It would be nice to report that they cancel each other, or that the wishful hopes inspired by the catalog blank out the throbbing misery of the flu.

But that would be a lie, and there's no use lying about anything so commonplace as flu or seed catalogs. Both we still have with us always, so it is better to be candid.

The catalog and the flu are symbols of the basic elements of life—the hope that springs eternal and the adversity that keeps upsetting the best-laid plans of mice, men and missile experts.

A year ago, when the catalog came, I fired back an order for a special kind of grass seed and all the newest varieties of zinnias. That was hope that springs eternal.

The grass and the zinnias both came up in due time, when the weather warmed up late in May. But only one zinnia seed in five germinated because of unseasonably wet weather in June, which made it necessary to replant and transplant until the summer was half gone. By late August the zinnias were reasonably gorgeous and no one remembered how much work had gone into them, except me. Then, overnight, in an early frost they were blitzed — and that was that.

The grass, on the other hand, came up 150 per cent. Every seed germinated, and half the seeds must have twinned. There was grass up to here on a long-legged dog — beautiful, thick, green, uncuttable grass.

The first time the power mower hit the stuff, it sounded as if a bearing had burned out. At top speed, the mower would groan to a stall after two feet. It was like trying to chew steel wool.

The lush green carpet defied every attempt to mow it all summer. The only contraption that made any impression was the big rotary mower which pulled up the tough stuff by the roots and bent it so it didn't look quite so tall.

There finally comes a time in a man's life when a seed catalog in the middle of the winter can be resisted — when even the colored illustration of a tomato makes a shut-in think of tomato worms, perspiration, sacro-iliac sprains and red spiders.

Whether it's the flu or the recollection of last year's experience with the drowned-out zinnias and the exuberant grass that defied the power mower, there is no zing in the seed catalog this year.

It has been thrown aside as an anachronism that does not fit in with the crumbs of the Christmas cookies, the pine needles on the carpet, the red bows and the Christmas cards that quit arriving as soon as Dec. 25 was over — and why must that be?

The flu doesn't belong in the Christmas season, either, but it cannot be cast aside. It is one of those things that attach themselves to you and must be borne with patience until it wears you out and then inflicts itself on someone better able to bear it.

When it is gone and has been forgotten, provided it doesn't take me with it, I may stir up enough interest to see what's being offered for 1959 in the shape of butter-leaf lettuce. It won't be long now. First, hope springs eternal. Adversity comes later.

News of Other Years

40 YEARS AGO—France warned Germany that if radicals seized power, the allies would consider the preliminary peace affairs ended.

Triple disaster menaced Germany. The German situation presented serious difficulties that threatened to have a bearing on the peace conference. Marshal Foch was threatening to end the negotiations, the down-trodden Poles led by Paderewski had crossed the German frontier and were marching on Berlin and the Bolshevik forces were moving upon German borders from the east.

20 YEARS AGO Louis E. Michel of Marion took over duties as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, replacing W. D. Brown, who had resigned after eight years of service.

France showed Italy a display of power in the Mediterranean while Britain prepared to meet Germany's threat to match her ton for ton in submarines.

10 YEARS AGO—The Senate's Republican "old guard" crushed a rebellion by self-styled "liberal" GOP senators, paving the way for re-election of Sen. Taft of Ohio as the party's policy leader.

A sailor and his bride were honeymooning after being married by a five-year-old minister. The preacher, Marjoe Gornier, had been ordained by the Old Time Faith church. His father said he had been preaching since he was three. He was assisted in the ceremony by his brother, age two.

Bible Words for Today

1 JOHN 4:7a; 16:b - "Beloved, let us love one another. . . God is love, and he who abides in love abides in God, and God abides in him." (RSV)

"God is Love!" Here is the very heart of the Gospel. The Infinite Power who ever creates and sustains this vast universe is forever our Father and Friend. The God who is beyond the stars, mysterious in his majesty and might, comes to us in the lowly Jesus with healing hands and compassionate heart.

It follows of necessity that "he who abides in love abides in God." Through our human love at its best, that is, when it is unselfish rather than possessive, we are brought into spiritual union with God. To abide in love, however, involves a love that is constant and continuing; a love that motivates and colors every thought, every attitude, every act. Such a love cannot be achieved in our own strength, but only as we commit our lives completely to the will of God, that He may abide in us. "Beloved, let us love one another!"

Safety Issue Raised on Plans For Atomic Reactor at Piqua

By JAMES B. SIBBISON
WASHINGTON (AP)—Some officials here are optimistic that an atomic power reactor will be built at Piqua, Ohio—despite a preliminary report by a group of scientists questioning the safety of the original plan.

An informed observer, declining use of his name, said today he believes alterations now being proposed by the Atomic Energy Commission would overcome the scientists' objections.

One proposed change he said, is that the reactor be constructed across the Miami River instead of having it on the same side as the Piqua power plant.

The reactor would supply steam to Piqua's electric generating facilities.

The AEC's plans to build the reactor have been delayed by a preliminary finding by the National Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards that the Piqua site was unsuitable.

Since that report was written, conversations have been conducted by the AEC, the committee, and

Banker Takes To Swimming Tricky Rivers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—When a 63-year-old Columbus, Ohio, banker jumped into England's River Thames the other day, a passing Londoner reportedly exclaimed: "Hey, the bloke's committing suicide."

If his head hadn't been underwater, the teller—whose name is James N. Sleppey—might have yelled back:

"Nope, just relaxing with my hobby."

Sleppey's hobby is swimming dangerous waterways. He started out on this unusual pursuit only about three years ago.

At the age of 60, he says, it suddenly came to him that his life "could not, by any stretch of the imagination, be called glamorous." He decided to begin anew at 60.

Since then he has made more than 30 endurance swims during leaves from the bank.

Rivers are his favorite opponents, the aquatically inclined bachelor says, and he ticks off the Ohio, Mississippi, Hudson, Potomac, Colorado and Missouri among his conquests. Then of course there's the Thames. That took 23 minutes.

After going so far as South America and Hawaii to tackle bays and off-shore courses in both oceans, as well, Sleppey is looking for new worlds—or waterways—to conquer. Continental Europe's rivers look tempting, he says.

Does his new start after 60 include the possibility of marriage?

Sleppey refers to a newspaper story written during his South American visit. "Since he thinks he is not very old yet," he says, "he says he can wait a while."

Two Cited After Delaware Mishap

DELAWARE—Both drivers involved in the single New Year's Day accident investigated by state highway patrolmen here were arrested, officers reported today.

The motorists and their charges were Noah Sparks, 42, of near South Webster, backing onto the highway without caution, and Dorothy Shirkey, 43, of near Ostrander, failure to stop within assured clear distance.

Officers said the non-injury mishap occurred on Rt. 745 two miles north of Shawnee Hills at 2:10 p.m.

The southbound Shirkey car came over the crest of a hill and skidded left of center to strike the rear corner of the Sparks auto, which had just backed out of a private drive into the northbound lane.

According to the report, the Shirkey vehicle went into the skid when the driver applied his brakes upon seeing the Sparks car backing onto the highway.

After impact the Shirkey auto traveled 44 feet, coming to rest in a ditch after striking a tree stump and fence. Patrolmen said it was badly damaged. Considerable damage was done to the Sparks car.

Mishap Fatal To Technician At Los Alamos

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—A medical expert says a technician killed by radiation in a Los Alamos atomic laboratory died from damage to his central nervous system.

He also says it may have been the first death of that type outside of war.

Dr. Thomas Shipman, head of the health division of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, says it was more than damage to the bone marrow-blood forming system that caused the death.

Cecil W. Kelley, 38, who had worked in the atomic laboratory about 11 years, died Thursday, 36 hours after the accident.

He was preparing a process to extract plutonium and said all he recalled was a flash as he started a stir operation in a tank.

Shipman said he believes that "outside of warfare, this may be the first death" of this type.

"I think it is, other than the bomb casualties in Japan," he said. Those were the deaths caused by the atomic bombing of Nagasaki and Hiroshima, which ended World War II.

Morrow Parents Say Girl Missing

EDISON—Nancy Ann Archable, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Archable of west of Edison has been reported missing, according to Sheriff Frank Giffin.

Sheriff Giffin said that Miss Archable was to be discharged from the WAVES at the U. S. Naval Recruit Training Center at Bainbridge, Md., on Dec. 5, 1958. He said she had purchased an airplane ticket for Columbus, O., but apparently never used it.

The family has not heard from their daughter since that time. Sheriff Giffin said the family thought they might received word from her during the Christmas holidays but did not.

The family thought the girl might have returned to Columbus and secured a job as a nurses aide there. She had written regularly while she was receiving her recruit training in Maryland.

Miss Archable is 19, is five feet, five inches and weighs 140 pounds. She was graduated from Edison High School in June 1958. She began her enlistment in the Navy on Oct. 6, 1958, and was discharged before her recruit training was completed.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann: I was officially engaged to a successful businessman. I can just see your eyebrows go up when I tell you I got my diamond ring in 1948. I never looked at another man in all that time—although several men looked at me. My fiancé cleverly avoided being pinned down to a specific wedding date.

Six months ago a woman who used to work with him wrote that she was getting a divorce and did he know of anyone who needed a good secretary. He lined up an excellent position for her and she moved to this city.

You can guess the rest. At first I refused to believe what was so obvious to everyone else. But now it's official. They are getting married in a month. He condescendingly added that I could keep the ring. I threw it in his face.

Should I sue him for breach of promise? He has plenty of money and some of my friends feel I should give him the works.—CAST-ASIDE.

Dear Castaside: Stay out of court. You were a prize sap to let this man string you for 10 years. Why make it a matter of public record and advertise the details?

Suppose you did manage to wring some cash out of the big stiff. Would it be worth the public stench? Give yourself a mental kick in the pants, then forget the whole ugly mess. A law suit may make him look bad but it won't enhance your position much—like none at all.

Dear Ann: Last year my four younger brothers and sisters got me down to the point where I became ill with a nervous disorder and my hair began to fall out in patches.

When I realized I was getting bald I went to a doctor. He said I was nervous and asked what was troubling me. I knew it was my younger brothers and sisters and told him so.

They get away with murder in our family. Their swearing and bad conduct is more than I can take. Mother never punishes them although she always says she will. They don't mind me because they know nothing will happen.

For six months I took shots, oral medication and rubbed salve into my scalp. I had to see the doctor every week. This cost my father several hundred dollars. Finally my hair came back and I looked human.

Now the same thing is happening all over again. I told Mother I want to go live with Grandma. It's so peaceful over there I feel like a different person when I'm in her house. My Grandma wants me but Mother says she needs me at home to help with the kids.

I'm 15, and I'll go crazy if I have to live in this house until I'm legally able to move out. Please advise me.—MARION.

Dear Marion: Your doctor would be your best ally in this case. Ask him to intervene. No young girl should be subjected to an environment so disturbing that it makes her ill. Rearing and disciplining the children in the family is your mother's responsibility. If you can't cope with the kids you are not helping her—or them. A temporary separation would be good for all concerned.

Restless Bride

Dear Ann Landers: I have a peculiar problem but I need help. I've been married only four months. My wife is unable to sleep the night through. She gets up sometime between 3 and 5 a.m. no matter what time we turn in. She takes her pillow and the blanket and sleeps the rest of the night on the floor.

She says she rests much better this way and offers no other explanation. I tried it once and for two days I felt like I had a busted back. Please help me. Her moving routine breaks up my sleep.—ANDY.

Dear Andy: Your wife needs a harder mattress or an orthopedic board under her side of the bed. Take care of this at once and get some rest.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Marion Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Morrow Officials Set To Take Over Offices in County

MOUNT GILEAD—Newly elected county officials have been or will be given the oath of office for their new posts soon.

County Judge Paul Richeson of Cardington has already received his oath of office and began a four-year term Jan. 1. He completed his first abbreviated term in office since the post was only established on Jan. 1, 1958. Mr. Richeson, a Republican, was elected without opposition last November.

County Representative Dale Hildebrand will begin his second year team Monday, Jan. 5, when the State Legislature convenes for the first time. All members will be sworn in at a mass ceremony. Mr. Hildebrand, a Republican, also was re-elected without opposition.

County Commissioner A. Ed Smith will receive his oath of office when the Morrow County Board of Commissioners meets for the first time this year on Monday, Jan. 5. Mr. Smith, a Democrat, won over incumbent Republican H. R. Fate last November. The board will reorganize at the first meeting. Other commissioners are Fred Wilson and B. L. Chapman. Mr. Smith will begin a four-year term.

Charles Shirley of Edison will not take over as county auditor until March 10, 1959. Mr. Shirley, a Democrat, won over the Republican incumbent Marold Taylor at the November Election.

Stork Kept Busy Over New Year's

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The stork was a busy fellow here New Year's Day. In fact, he was in two places at the same time.

New Year's Day Prank in Arizona Kills 2, Injures 8

SAN CARLOS, Ariz. (AP) — A senseless New Year's Day prank backfired into tragedy when a dynamite explosion killed two persons, hospitalized eight others and splintered a one-room house.

Mike Windham, criminal investigator for the Indian Bureau, said partygoers at a San Carlos Reservation wooden frame house were tossing lighted dynamite sticks out the door. He gave this account:

Deb Hinton, 27, a miner, brought home some dynamite from a nearby mine. A holiday group of 10 Indians jammed Hinton's small house for a party. After midnight, they started tossing the dynamite. One of the lighted sticks dropped into a box containing other sticks, setting off the blast.

Hinton and his sister, Mrs. Nona Peaches, 17, were killed. Five of the injured were in critical condition. Several had limbs blown off or so badly mangled they had to be amputated. All were hospitalized, at least temporarily.

The dead man's brother, Sam; his wife, Gloria, 26; a sister, Manuella, 19; Sam Hinton's wife, Frieda; and their unidentified infant child, sex unknown; Norbert Dennis and McGillis Mallow.

Movie Starlet Cindy Robbins Is Launched With Champagne

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cindy Robbins, a blonde destroyer, is the first young actress ever to be launched with champagne.

How that came about can best be told by a backstage look at the publicity buildup given a potential star.

Cindy, barely 21, has a bubbling personality. That alone should give a good publicity man a peg. But her first picture, "This Earth Is Mine," is laid in the vineyards of a great California wine making family. She was a natural for a champagne build-up. Now she is known as "the champagne blonde."

Bud Westmore, Universal-International make-up chief, might have shampooed her hair with any of the standard preparations. But the publicity department decreed it should be champagne.

"Actually," says Westmore, "it does wonders for her hair and I can recommend it to anyone who can afford it."

Next the studio ordered her to appear in public wearing champagne colored dresses and driving a champagne colored convertible.

If she orders a cocktail at a cafe, it must be champagne. Cindy, even without champagne, has all the attributes for stardom, including talent and years of experience. She's an offbeat character, somewhat reminiscent of Shirley MacLaine. Physically, she's an American Bardot.

Although this is her first picture—and her part is a key one with Jean Simmons and Rock Hudson—she has been preparing for it since she was 8.

Iowa Batters California 38-12; LSU Nails 7-0 Win

Oklahoma in Rout; Air Force Ties TCU

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Louisiana State, the national football champion, probably will get a strong argument over the honor from second place Iowa today in the wake of the Sugar and Rose Bowl games.

Both teams were heavily favored—LSU by 15 points over Clemson in the Sugar Bowl and Iowa by 18 over California in the Rose Bowl. Only Iowa proved the odds makers correct.

Score in Every Quarter
The Hawkeyes scored in every period to overwhelm California, the Pacific Coast Conference king, 38-12. LSU had to call on Coach Paul Dietzel to call the play that defeated Clemson 7-0.

Oklahoma did as expected and defeated dogged Syracuse 21-6 in the Orange Bowl. Air Force pulled a mild upset in playing Southwest Conference champion Texas Christian to a 0-0 tie in a battle of fumbles and mistakes in the Cotton Bowl. Prairie View A&M walloped Langston 34-8 in the Prairie View Bowl.

Iowa was runnerup to the Bayou Bengals in the final Associated Press poll that settled the national championship. But the Big Ten champs were not expected to have as easy a time as they did against an outwitted, outmaneuvered Cal team.

On the other hand, LSU, with its White, Go and Chinese Bands, its three-team varsity specialists, was expected to have some trouble from a hefty Clemson line, but by sheer weight of numbers, were supposed to have things their way in the end.

Line Refuses To Falter
The Clemson line didn't weaken. A broken right hand by LSU quarterback Warren Rabb on the third play of the game put him out for the second half. These two factors weighed heavily in forcing Dietzel to revamp his offensive plans—and hope.

The wisp of hope came in the third period when Clemson center Paul Snyder got a firmer grip on some turf than on the ball on a snap-back to punter Bill Mathis. 42 yards on the second play of the game for the first Sooner score. Brewster Hobby combined off the knee of blocker Doug Cline, was recovered by LSU tackle Duane Leopold on the Clemson 11, pass play for the second TD—a most valuable player, started wide, spotted end Mickey Mangham and hit him with a pass for the score. Cannon kicked the extra point.

Two plays gained only one yard and on third down All America halfback Billy Cannon, the game's yards for the third score.

Dietzel admitted afterward that he called the scoring play "because Clemson was putting so much pressure on our quarterbacks when they went back to pass that I figured a halfback run-pass option would take more time." Rabb whose injury was not disclosed until halftime explained that his passing was handicapped and he was forced to abandon his wide-open offense for a ground game. He hit only two of seven passes.

Hawks Never Worried
Iowa never had a worry in the Rose Bowl, although they fumbled at the start. Led by Bob (Jet) Jeter, the Hawkeyes, winning their second Rose Bowl, rolled up 516 yards overall, 23 more than former recordholder Michigan in 1949 against Southern Cal.

Jeter ran 81 yards for one score, breaking Northwestern's Frank Aschenbrenner's record of 71 against Cal in 1949. He also gained 194 yards overall, 43 more than Bobby Grayson of Stanford against Columbia in 1934, the previous record.

Iowa scored the second time it had the ball, and managed at least one TD per quarter against a Cal line outwitted an average of 18 pounds per man.

Coach Forest Evashevski's winning formula: "Our basic plan was to run inside and off tackle. We figured they were weak there."

Said Cal Coach Pete Elliott: "We knew it was coming, but it's hard to block a freight train."

Jack Hart scored both Cal TDs, one on a yard plunge, the other on a 17-yard pass from quarterback Joe Kapp.

Oklahoma used its blinding speed to build up a 14-0 first period lead, added another score in the third and then got pushed around for the rest of the game by a Syracuse line that didn't melt in the 78 degree heat.

Fullback Prentice Gault raced 42 yards on the second play of the game for the first Sooner score. Brewster Hobby combined off the knee of blocker Doug Cline, was recovered by LSU tackle Duane Leopold on the Clemson 11, pass play for the second TD—a

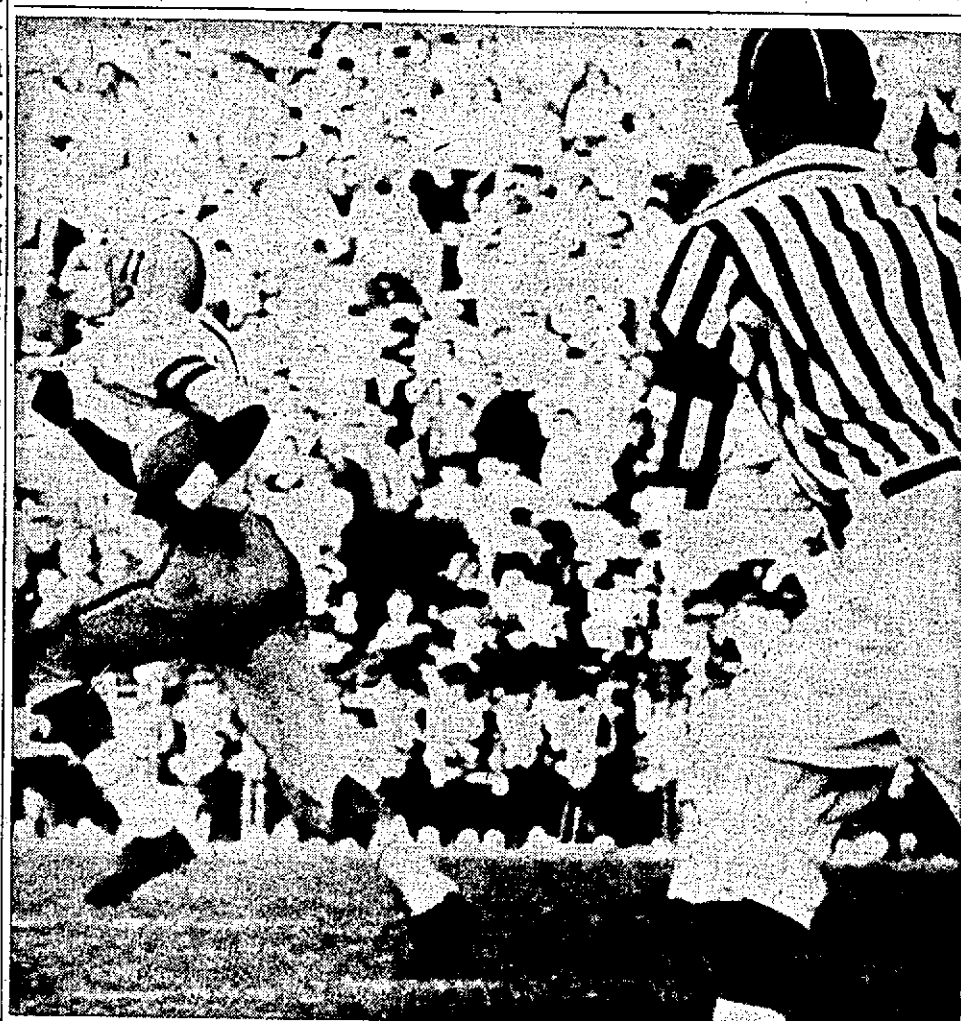

Two plays gained only one yard and on third down All America halfback Billy Cannon, the game's yards for the third score.

150 To Shoot For Golf Title On West Coast

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Professional golfers start another California gold rush today as they tee off in the first round of the $35,000 Los Angeles Open.

In five tournaments in California and at adjacent Tijuana, Mex., in the next month, a total of $145,000 prize money will be up for grabs.

The 72-hole Los Angeles event has attracted a field of 150 studs with top names of golf.

It is being played over the 7,120-yard, par 71 Rancho Municipal Course.

First place, to be decided Monday, will be worth $5,300.

Frank Stranahan, the millionaire from Toledo, Ohio, won the 1958 event.

But he isn't rated the favorite to repeat.

Rated at the top are Ken Venturi of San Francisco, who has won approximately $100,000 in a little more than two years on the tourney trail; Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who won four tournaments last year; Jay Herbert, New Orleans; Billy Casper, Chula Vista, Calif.; Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., and Tommy Bolt, Houston, Tex.

Boxing, certainly needs new faces badly. It can't afford to wait. However, the expert opinion that has made Ortega an 8 to 5 favorite thinks the youngster is being rushed when he is pitted against an experienced opponent who has had 62 pro fights.

Pickpockets Busy
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The sun smiled on Pasadena's Rose Parade Thursday and on the busy band of pickpockets working the big crowd.

Thirty-five wallets containing a total of $2,000 were lifted by light-fingered operators, police said. It was the biggest haul in years.

Newcomer Faces Ortega in TV Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Fight fans start the New Year with a look at something brand new in Denny Moyer, a 19-year-old welterweight from Portland, Ore. who has won all of his 18 pro fights.

Young Moyer, of French-Irish parentage, appears before a network (NBC) television camera for the first time tonight when he boxes sad-faced Gaspar Ortega of Mexico, Mexico in Madison Square Garden. The 10-round match also will be carried on NBC radio, starting at 10 p.m. (EST).

Big Ten Cage Race To Open With 5 Games

By The Associated Press

The Big Ten basketball championship campaign opens Saturday with Northwestern, Michigan State and Purdue generally regarded as the prime favorites.

Each has been defeated only once in preliminary skirmishing, as has Michigan, which won the Motor City Classic this week with a 93-68 rout of Detroit. Illinois has two losses.

All other conference teams have been beaten at least four times.

The title drive starts with a pair of afternoon contests. Defending champion Indiana (3-4) invades Michigan State (6-1) for a regionally televised scrap and Ohio State (4-4) visits Illinois (5-2).

The evening program sends Iowa (3-5) to Northwestern (7-1), Michigan (6-1) to Purdue (7-1) and Wisconsin (2-6) to Minnesota (3-3).

MSU rates about a 10-point favorite in the TV affair, although the Hoosiers have a decided height advantage with 6-10 1/2 sophomore Walt Bellamy and 6-7 Frank Radovich. But the rebounding of Johnny Green and sophomore Horace Walker and the consistent scoring of veteran Bob Anderson give the Spartans better, and more experience, balance.

North Carolina State handed MSU its only defeat by taking a 70-61 victory this week in the finals

Cage Teams To Resume Loop Action

By The Associated Press

College basketball powers set their sights today on conference warfare following the greatest outburst of Christmas week tournament activity in the history of the game.

The hectic week of tournament jousting involved most of the leading top ten teams and rang up merry tunes on the cash registers. It also served to point up again the talent riches of the Atlantic Coast Conference, especially of North Carolina State, Dixie Classic champions, and North Carolina.

Most of the major tournament and non-tournament holiday action ended Wednesday to permit the short-pants set to celebrate the New Year in civvies.

But there was some firing on the courts Thursday, including a couple of tourneys in the East. Move Into Semifinals

Bowdoin, beaten in its first eight starts, surprised Rutgers, 67-66, in the first round of the Downeast Classic, at Bangor, Maine. Bob Gorra's basket in the last two seconds put Bowdoin against Colby in the semifinals tonight. Colby beat Tufts, 64-55. The other semifinal matches St. Michael's, Vt. and Wesleyan.

Williams and Massachusetts moved into tonight's semifinals of the Springfield, Mass. College Invitational tournament. Williams avenged its only defeat of the season by trouncing Harvard, 83-67, and Massachusetts downed winless American International, 59-51. Springfield and Amherst, first round winners Wednesday, play in the other semifinal.

In non-tourney intersectional contests, Butler came from behind a nine point deficit in the first half to nose out Navy, 59-58 at Indianapolis, and Ohio State raced away from crippled Brigham Young in the last 10 minutes, for a 100-81 victory at Columbus, O., despite sophomore Bob Skousen's 39 point spree for the losing Cougars.

N. C. State's victory in its own Dixie Classic—which had four of the nation's top ten teams in the field—was most impressive.

Shoot for National Title
The Wolfpack, on the prowl for the national title, whipped seventh-ranked, previously undefeated Michigan State, 70-61, in the championship contest. To get that far, the fifth-ranked Wolfpack edged Louisville in overtime, 67-61, then toppled Cincinnati's second-ranked Bearcats from the unbeaten ranks, 69-60.

Fourth-ranked North Carolina, which had been beaten by Michigan State, 75-58 in the semifinals, bounced back to nip Cincinnati for third place, 90-88.

To make it all the more delectable for ACC fans, Duke beat Louisville for fifth place, 57-54, and Wake Forest walloped Yale 85-76 for seventh.

Undefeated St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., and Louisiana Tech, copped the other major tournaments decided Wednesday night.

St. Francis surged back after blowing a 20-point lead with 16 minutes left to conquer Fordham, 74-71 for the Carrousel title at Charlotte, N. C.

Louisiana Tech subdued Virginia Tech, 71-68, in the overtime finale of the Gulf South Classic at Shreveport, La.

Pleasant Visits Claridon Five Games Slated In County League

By The Associated Press

The Marion County basketball league rolls into high gear again tonight, as the long post-holiday schedule to season's end gets underway.

All 10 teams are slated for action, with Prospect invading the Martel stronghold, Pleasant journeying to Claridon, Ridgedale visiting New Bloomington, Caledonia going to LaRue and Green Camp sizing up the Waldo court.

AS OF NOW, two teams are undefeated in three loop games. The Bulldogs of Prospect, coached by Fred McCumber, and the Pandas of Pleasant, charges of Stan Kirby.

MARION COUNTY LEAGUE

Prospect 3 0 1.000
Pleasant 3 0 1.000

New Bloomington 2 1 .750
Green Camp 2 1 .750
Caledonia 1 2 .500
Claridon 1 2 .500
Martel 1 2 .500

LaRue 0 3 .000

by, both boast 1.000 percentage marks going into tonight's fray. Three quintets are deadlocked in the second spot, with Bill Phillips' Ridgedale five, Jim Coffman's New Bloomington Rams and the Green Camp Panthers of Dale Kinsell all sporting 2-1 marks for .750 per cent.

Three other lives are in the one won, two lost category, with the Scots of Caledonia under Joe Green, the Hornets of Claridon under Allen Augenstein, and the Eagles of Martel under Paul Zwayer currently playing .600 ball in league action.

POWERFUL Prospect, considered at season's outset, the team to beat, should tally a score to suit its fancy on the Martel boards. Zwayer's Eagles got off to what looked like a fast start this season, pounding LaRue 63-38. But, against Caledonia and Pleasant, Martel looked anything but efficient and tumbled by respective scores of 86-36 and 91-54.

The Bulldogs, on the other hand, filed an early claim on the loop title by trouncing Ridgedale 68-58 and clouted LaRue 74-44 prior to the holiday layoff.

Kirby's Pandas were given the best chance to challenge Prospect for championship honors this season, and so far they have done a fine job of doing just that. Kirby's lads belted Waldo 59-22 to get into the spirit of the winning, followed up with a 66-61 triumph over Green Camp, then laced Martel 91-54.

Meets Zanesville Here

YMCA's Wrestling Squad To Open Season Saturday

The Marion YMCA's state championship wrestling team will open its season here Saturday against an always rugged Zanesville YMCA team in a renewal of a bitter rivalry which has grown between the two teams.

Barring last-minute injuries or colds, Coach Dean Ludwig's squad should be a full strength for the opening meet, scheduled to get under way at 2 p.m. The Marion squad will send five state champions into action. Two other lettermen also will see action.

DALE KIBBEY, last year's state champion, will start in the 112-

Bill Thatcher, three-time state champ and winner of 29 straight matches, will be in action at 133 and another rookie, Harry Spring, will handle the 138-pound category. Bud Kelley, a two-year veteran, handles the 145-pound class with John Keller, a rookie, going in at 154. Jim Jones, another state champion, will wrestle in the 165 pound class. Abner Thomas, state champion and co-captain, will defend his rating in the 175-pound class while Jerry Gibson, another veteran, will carry Marion hopes in the unlimited division.

ZANESVILLE has been tabbed by Coach Ludwig as one of the top wrestling squads in Ohio. All past performances and records are thrown out of the windows when the two teams meet, he said.

It will be the sixth meeting of the two since the Marion YMCA began wrestling in 1956. Zanesville grabbed the first match by a 30-12 margin but has been shutout since Marion came back in 1957 to clip Zanesville 21-11 and 22-21. Last year, the local team extended its stretch with 28-16 and 25-24 victories.

Coach Ludwig gave his charges a day off Thursday and was scheduled to wind up preparations today with a squad meeting and a light workout.

Persons interested in obtaining season passes for the local team's home games this year may purchase them Saturday at the gate.

Chicago Stock Reported Sold To Bill Veeck

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune says a syndicate headed by Bill Veeck has bought controlling interest in the Chicago White Sox but the stock sale officially was denied.

John Rigney, club vice president whose wife, Dorothy, is the majority stockholder, said Thursday night: "It is not true that the sale has been made. Negotiations still are going on."

Roy Egan, Comiskey attorney and a member of the board of directors, also denied completion of the sale.

"If anybody should know it would be me," he said. "Completion of such a sale has not been made and I don't know if it ever will be."

Veeck, former head of groups who owned the Cleveland Indians and old St. Louis Browns, declined to comment.

The Tribune said formal announcement is being held up pending further negotiations with Vice President Charles Comiskey, minority stockholder who has been bidding for the shares of his sister, Mrs. Rigney.

"Veeck's long range plans, it was learned, include the likelihood of selling Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox since 1910, and the possibility of playing in Soldier Field or elsewhere," the Tribune added.

South's Squad Given Edge in Senior Battle

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A proven scoring combination helped establish the South as a touchdown favorite in Saturday's Senior Bowl football game.

In giving Coach Paul Brown's squad the edge, the oddsmakers remembered last weekend's North-South Shrine Bowl game at Miami when Buddy Humphrey of Baylor threw three scoring passes to Mississippi State's Billy Stacy.

Humphrey also tossed two other touchdown aeriels in the South's 49-20 victory in that game. He was the nation's top collegiate passer this season with 1,316 yards on 112 completions in 195 attempts.

Humphrey and Stacy will be in Brown's offensive backfield Saturday and it'll be a big surprise if they don't try to make plenty of yardage through the air.

The other South backs are Georgia's 200-pound fullback plunger, Theron Sapp, and another husky runner, 195-pound Don Brown of Houston.

Joe Kuharich's North squad is not lacking in passers of runners either.

He plans to start Boston College's Don Allard at quarterback. Allard, first round draft choice of the Washington Redskins, threw for seven touchdowns during the season. He passed for 691 yards.

About 38,000 are expected for the game, which will be nationally televised by NBC with a blackout within a 100-mile radius of Mobile.

Ike Calls on Russia To Prove Peace Intent in Berlin Crisis

Eisenhower, Khrushchev Swap Notes

New Challenge Issued As Leaders Exchange New Year's Greetings

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower has told Russian leaders their professed desire for peace should be applied to their handling of the Berlin crisis.

He made a pointed reply in an exchange of New Year's greetings with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Klement E. Voroshilov.

Their message, delivered to Eisenhower's farm home near here, expressed hope that 1959 would see an end to "fears of the dangers of a new world war."

Fires Back Cablegram

Eisenhower — watching a football game on television when the message came in — fired back a cablegram saying he shared the Russians' hopes. He agreed that "genuine efforts" might well be fruitful.

He went on to say: "As of this moment it seems to us critically important to apply the sentiments expressed in your message to the Berlin situation. In this connection, I cannot fail to recall your government's declaration toward the people of Berlin."

He referred to the Russians' announced intention to make Berlin a free city — which would mean Western withdrawal from a key city that, in this country's view, would then inevitably come under Communist rule.

Not in Accord With Statements

Eisenhower said the Russians' moves to take over Berlin "are not in accord with your expressed aspirations and hopes for peaceful coexistence."

Then Eisenhower reiterated the stand taken by the United States, Britain and France in formal notes delivered only Wednesday to the Kremlin. Those notes, rejecting Russia's demand that they agree within six months to leave Berlin, suggested a general conference on German problems.

"The United States government," Eisenhower said, "repeats that, in an atmosphere devoid of any kind of coercion and threat, it would welcome discussion on the question of Berlin in the wider framework of the whole German problem and European security. Positive progress in this specific problem would, I deeply believe, give real substance to the hope that 1959 would witness great advances toward the goal of a just and lasting peace."

A 1934 graduate of East Liverpool High School, he once was assistant band director at Stanford University at Palo Alto, Calif. He leaves his wife Dorothea; two daughters, Sue, 11, and Ann, 4.

corted them into the Post composing room, where they claimed to have found a pistol and attempted to pin ownership on the AP.

"We tried to argue our way out of it," Allen said, "but the rebels became more menacing."

"We were herded downstairs and into an automobile and taken to a police station where young rebels were running the show."

"After much protesting and explaining that we were Americans, the rebels decided to release us and permit us to return to the bullet-battered Post building."

Clark Arrives

As Allen, Kaufman, and Valentine were taken out of the building, Bob Clark, AP writer from Miami who had just reached Havana after a charter plane flight, walked into the building.

Clark grabbed a phone and dictated the story of the arrest until the others returned.

"Young boys were running wild through the streets, waving guns and picking up anyone they suspected of possessing arms or of being anti-Castro," Allen said.

"It is a wild situation that could go out of control at any time and develop into something horrible."

"There is no protection for Americans whatsoever, except what the rebels themselves give."

Returns to Office

William L. Ryan, AP news analyst who also is in Cuba helping to cover the revolution, was not in the AP office when it was invaded. He arrived shortly after the others had been taken away.

Clark gave this account of the scene he encountered on his arrival in the riot-torn Cuban capital:

The AP men were being led out of the Post building at gunpoint when I reached it.

All three men appeared haggard and shaken from the effects of rifle fire which pockmarked the building and shattered glass only a few minutes before a rebel squad invaded the AP offices on the Post building's second floor.

I arrived at 10:30 a.m. after a relatively tranquil ride from Jose Marti Airport where a charter plane brought me.

Much of Havana appeared in a holiday mood, with crowds joyriding in automobiles that flew the Cuban flag. Many Havana residents loitered on curbs watching for excitement which still flared up at points in downtown Havana.

Barricades kept motorists and pedestrians away from the waterfront.

But on the road from the airport to Havana, usually a race course for daring motorists and taxi drivers, only a light stream of traffic was moving.

Men brandishing a variety of small arms ranging from beat-up modern hunting rifles to beat-up Krags of Spanish-American war vintage prowled the streets in automobiles, directed traffic at intersections, and stood guard behind barricades at many points.

I saw a few men in national police uniforms which used to be often encountered on the streets during the Batista regime. The few I did see wore black and red rebel arm bands over their left sleeves.

Jail Record Set Here

Inmate population at the county jail totaled 1,201 during 1958, the highest number on record here, sheriff's deputies reported today.

The figure represents an increase of 100 prisoners over the number serving time in 1957. Deputies said the busiest month was last May when 124 persons were jailed.

Revolt in Cuba

tions of his victory continued there all night.

Until Urrutia takes over in Havana, Castro's announcements from Santiago provided the only framework of government. Only he designated were giving orders to Cuba's armed forces and police.

Castro supporters held Havana under tight control — virtually martial law — today after victory celebrations Thursday led to violence.

Castro, a lawyer who has been a rebel for more than a third of his 32 years, outlined his platform in 1955.

It included nationalization of U. S. financed and operated utilities, splitting up American-owned sugar estates among the peasants, confiscation of all properties acquired through corrupt government and breaking the hold of some big businessmen on Cuba's economy.

U.S. Picking Up Tourists

The bearded guerrilla warrior has denied Batista's charges that he is a Communist or is Communist-influenced. Castro says his goal is to end corruption, establish democracy and help the small man among the 5,410,000 people of this Pennsylvania-sized island.

Castro and Urrutia were expected to make a triumphal entry into Havana.

The capital quieted down Thursday night after an orgy of celebration, looting and retaliation against supporters of Batista. Three policemen and 10 looters were reported killed.

There was no indication that any of the 12,000 Americans in Havana had been harmed. The State Department said in Washington it had no plans for evacuating U.S. citizens.

With the Havana International Airport closed and cruise ships avoiding the city, however, the U. S. Embassy announced a ship was on the way from Key West to take home stranded tourists.

Batista gave up the presidency and fled to the Dominican Republic early Thursday. His family and scores of his top officials departed hastily with him or in planes and boats for the United States.

Batista said he was quitting to save Cuba from further bloodshed. Castro sought to restore order as soon as possible, both to stop bloodshed and to protect Cuba's normally prosperous economy.

Sugar and sugar products make up 75 per cent of national exports and the cane grinding season is at hand.

While continuing to claim publicly that the rebels were losing and would be stamped out, Batista had a plane standing by.

The dictator gathered his top henchmen around him at Camp Columbia on New Year's Eve. He broke off a toast to peace and prosperity to announce that he was giving up the presidency and leaving.

Joins Trujillo

About 3:30 a.m. he flew off in his personal DC-3 to Ciudad Trujillo, capital of friendly fellow dictator Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic. Batista's wife, three of his children and a number of top aides accompanied him.

They included Prime Minister Gonzalo Guey and the man Batista had picked to succeed him on Feb. 24, Andres Rivero Aguero, who was named president on Nov. 3 in an election that Castro called fraudulent.

He also credited Castro with superior armament, though Batista's forces had tanks and warplanes the rebels lacked. He said the rebels received a continuous flow of weapons while government troops could not be supplied.

The deposed President contended that Castro had dominated rural populations by terror.

"Before this revolt, Castro's life was in my hands three times and three times I pardoned him," Batista said. "I did the same for other revolutionaries."

Asked about the future prospects of Cuban politics he said: "I am not a prophet. I see much confusion."

With Batista as his second wife and three of his eight children. The other children are refugees in the United States.

government which will take over in Havana in a day or so."

Betancourt said the change of government would not bring nationalization of Cuban sugar plantations or utilities owned by outside interests.

He made the statement during an interview on the NBC-TV "Today" program when asked about a 1955 statement by rebel chief Fidel Castro in which Castro favored nationalization.

"That has been discarded as an impractical and unwise move," replied Betancourt.

Castro cannot be a candidate for president because he's too young, said Betancourt. Castro is 32. The constitution requires the president to be 35.

Betancourt was asked about statements that there were Communists among the rebels.

jets. These will be in addition to the engineers.

The last stumbling block to resuming service was removed when Eastern and its pilots signed an agreement which assured the pilots their rights would not suffer from the new contract with the engineers.

The new engineers' contract provisions also provides a new wage scale for DC-8 jet airliners, including $1,377 a month for senior flight engineers and 3 1/2 per cent to be paid into a new pension fund.

American Airlines pilots struck Dec. 19 in a demand for higher pay, shorter hours, and compensation for nonflying time away from home. Top pilots' wages at American has been $1,602 a month.

Democratic caucus next Tuesday morning.

Leaders of the liberal group reported privately that Rayburn already has wooed away much of the support they had counted on. Telephone calls even before Rayburn left Texas, they said, convinced them that the speaker was dead set against changing the rules.

Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) has told newsmen he has an agreement with Rayburn which would leave the Rules Committee lineup unchanged. There are two Republican vacancies, and they are slated to go to Reps. Edgar Chenoweth (R-Colo.) and Carroll Reece (R-Tenn.) if they want them.

If the liberals lose in Tuesday's Democratic caucus, they probably will try again Wednesday when the House convenes formally and adopts rules for the new session.

Deaths

Authorities said partygoers in a frame house began tossing lighted dynamite sticks out the door. One of the lighted sticks dropped into a box containing other sticks, setting off the blast.

A 10,000-acre brush fire in the hills around Los Angeles, Calif., sent thousands fleeing from their homes. Dozens of houses were destroyed but there were no fatalities.

Explosions caused by a ship's collision with oil barges near New Orleans, La., rocked the area and set both barges afire, but no one was killed.

CINCINNATI (AP)—James McKenzie, 46, was charged with manslaughter Thursday in the shooting slaying of A. Z. Wilson, 26, during an argument in McKenzie's home in suburban Lincoln Heights. Sgt. Ervin Martin of Lincoln Heights police said McKenzie told him Wilson threatened him with a knife.

Marion Area Auto Mishaps

A Toronto, Canada, woman was injured in one of the two New Year's Day mishaps investigated in the county by Marion highway patrolmen following an accident-free New Year's Eve.

Officers said the injured woman, June Fields, 18, was treated at Morrow County Hospital for a bruised left foot and shock, then released.

She was a passenger in an east-bound auto driven by Donald E. Fields, 21, of Toronto, which failed to negotiate a curve on Rt. 95 six and one-half miles east of Marion. The car struck an iron fence at the entrance to Claridon Township Cemetery.

The car and the fence were badly damaged in the 2 a.m. mishap. Marion County Rd. 101, just west of Marion, was the scene of a second county accident Thursday.

It occurred at 5:30 p.m. when a northbound auto driven by William L. Davidson, 19, of 425 Ballentine Ave. swerved off the right side of the highway into a ditch.

The vehicle was badly damaged, officers said.

Auto Strikes Bridge

Sheriff's deputies investigated one minor accident at 2:45 a.m. Thursday on County Rd. 34 north-west of Marion.

Deputies said an eastbound car driven by John W. Goodin, 20, of near Prospect skidded out of control and struck a small bridge. Goodin apparently was uninjured but the left front and rear of the car were damaged, deputies said.

Three Mishaps in City

Three minor no-injury traffic accidents were investigated Wednesday and Thursday by Marion police.

One was a hit-skip mishap and occurred at 10:50 a.m. Wednesday. A car owned by Walter F. Russell of Cincinnati, parked in the 500 block of N. Main St., was struck from the rear by another unidentified vehicle.

Cars driven by Conrad D. Trammontana, 17, of 686 Silver St. and Norman Bauman, 19, of near Attica were involved in an accident at E. Center St. and Forest Lawn Blvd. at 7:52 p.m. Wednesday.

The only other accident in the city occurred at 7:23 a.m. Thursday and cost less than $100 total damage, police estimated.

Dimes Drive

Dimes activities and a central location for the use of anyone wishing to make a contribution or volunteer services to the drive.

The headquarters will be staffed by members of the Welcome Wagon Newcomer's Club, Mrs. James Roche, president, Mrs. Glenn Fish, chairman, and Mrs. Ralph Shroyer, secretary. Hours will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. or by appointment. The telephone number is 2-0210.

The familiar March of Dimes coin canisters have been distributed throughout city and county business places and institutions. Distribution of the canisters was handled in the city by members of the Marion County AFL-CIO Council and in the county by members of the Sheriff's Department.

Coin card mailings have been scheduled to arrive this morning in the home of every Marion County family. These coin cards, which are filled in the home and mailed back to Dimes Headquarters, account for an important part of the campaign funds. Similar cards have also been distributed through the school systems in the county by the Sheriff's Department and in the city by Joe Casey, chairman of the drive.

Letters soliciting special gifts have been dispatched to various organizations and individuals throughout the city and county. "We have already received several contributions in reply to these letters," Mr. Casey said. "However, we know it's quite possible that we've missed organizations or individuals who would like to make special, advance contributions. We urge you to call our new headquarters or contact me personally," he added.

A full calendar of special events is taking shape to carry the drive through January to its culmination in the traditional porchlight campaign of the Mothers March to take place on Thursday, Jan. 29.

Many new activities have been added by special events chairman, James Sloan, who is coordinating the individual efforts of clubs and groups sponsoring activities aimed at raising funds for the drive.

A new movie, "The Challenge," outlining the expanded program of the National Foundation, is available for showing to groups. The movie may be booked by contacting C. Kelly Shelton at National City Bank, 3-1141. Projectors and operators are available, if needed, through March of Dimes volunteers.

Cold Weather Forecast for Marion Area

December, which appeared on the scene in Marion County replete with all the earmarks of winter, departed without fanfare Wednesday night and the first day of January Thursday was one of almost continuous misty rain.

The temperature rose to a warm 43 in mid-afternoon, then sank to an overnight low of only 32. Fortunately, the mercury failed to fall below the 32-degree mark during the day, as forecast, leaving highways wet but relatively safe for motorists.

As a result few mishaps Thursday were reported, the sheriff and highway patrolmen from the Marion post.

December was a rather rugged month, from a weather point of view. It brought on a stretch of winter that, from the 8th to the 14th saw the temperature falling below zero every night but one. That one time — Dec. 11 — it was a frosty 9 above.

The lowest reading for the month was 13 below, set on Dec. 9. The highest was the lofty 51 recorded Dec. 29.

With the mercury standing at 33 at noon today, the weatherman called for anything but favorable conditions over the next 24-hour period. The outlook this morning was for partly cloudy conditions, snow flurries and much colder temperatures both tonight and Saturday.

Today's anticipated high was 43, with 15 the expected overnight low. A high of 20 is called for Saturday, and, if it transpires, the day will be the coldest since Dec. 15 when the mercury sat to 18 above.

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—A Melbourne air conditioning and refrigeration firm has applied to use America's talking Atlas satellite to advertise its wares from outer space.

Soon after the Atlas orbited on Dec. 22, the firm cabled authorities at Cape Canaveral: "Please quote rates for 30-word spot announcement to be broadcast to earth from Atlas satellite featuring our firm."

Traffic

the normal heavy holiday travel Thursday and deaths took a sharp upturn after a comparatively safe start. Treacherous driving conditions were reported in many areas, especially in the Midwest and East. Local blizzard conditions added to the traffic hazards in the high plains and upper Mississippi Valley.

A council spokesman said if the rate of deaths reported Thursday continued, traffic fatalities for the holiday period will exceed 400.

The Communications Workers of America today informed the General Telephone Co. of Ohio, which has its headquarters in Marion, that the union membership had ratified the new contract for 1959.

Two applications for permission to use properties for business purposes will be considered by the Marion County Planning Commission at its regular meeting Monday night in City Hall.

Mrs. Ruth Powell of 675 Wood St. is requesting permission to use the kitchen of her residence for a small bakery operation. She said she plans to provide off-street parking at the rear and that she has the consent of two adjacent property owners.

Science Learns Sharks Are Able To Hear, Smell

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Sharks can smell and sharks can hear, says a scientist who observed them from a submarine cage.
Conrad Limbaugh of the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography also reported that the so-called man eaters could be kept away by a repellent color or odor.
He said they hunt mostly by smell, by swimming up current. They responded to pounding on the metal side of the cage, by swimming to investigate it.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

The Ears Get Tired

The newspaper strike is over, and long last and a man can pick up his news and read it at will, thank God. The strike emphasized one aspect of news coverage on radio and TV. Even if it were adequate—and it isn't—you must set your watch by the broadcast; if you want news you must listen when they give it. If you're bored, there's no turning the page to something else. You can turn it off or listen. There are no other choices.

This is not meant as a criticism. There's nothing the broadcaster can do about it. But the range is certainly narrow.

If you have a special interest in, say, real estate, you can't very well turn to WDZ "the real estate station" and gorge yourself on news about corner lots.

YOU JUST HAVE to turn to Doug Edwards and hope for some real estate news to trickle through. That means you have to sit through all the other news. Those of you who couldn't care less about real estate have to sit through specialized interest as you have to sit through others.

Of course, properly presented, news could grab all of us. I find myself listening, open-mouthed, to all sorts of bits about the geophysical year, just past, about the world's economy, about all sorts of things, that are not normally my enthusiasms—simply because they're presented in abundance at the end of the year.

In the world of news, both radio and TV always assume that we don't want it—unless it's Page 1 stuff. But radio and TV could be used to broaden our interests rather than leave them as narrow or to narrow them even further.

There are limits, though, to what you can pick up by ear or what you want to pick up by ear, or at least what I want to pick up by ear.

AFTER AWHILE you get filled up to the brim and you simply don't want to listen to anymore; you can't absorb any more.

Chet Huntley took a swipe at newspapers in his news broadcast after the strike was settled by predicting that the newspapers would assign their best reporters to proving how indispensable the newspapermen were.

I don't know that that took any further proof. After almost three weeks without newspapers, New Yorkers frankly didn't know the score about anything—what was going on in the world, what plays were in the theaters, what was playing at the movie houses, or heaven forbid—what was on the TV that night.

The year 1958 was hailed in television by critics as one of television's worst. In advance, it looked terrible and frankly it hasn't been great but it hasn't been all that bad.

Ever since television emerged from the experimental phase, it has been billowing and expanding and heading for new horizons. Always there were horizons at which the broadcaster aimed at top speed.

In 1958, he stopped in his tracks. The recession was partly to blame. As one adman said, it took the gas out of the few people who had any.

THE MORE adventurous minds were lost to TV, some of them heading for the movies or the theater; others were thrilled by the unenviable prospect of the networks taking charge at the networks. Also—let's face it—after 10 years there aren't so many horizons left to head for.

The year was full of Westerns which defy rational explanation—at least by me—but there were some surprises.

Fred Astaire's special knocked the critics for a loop and also the public, that portion of it that saw it. It'll be repeated.

Two big comedians—Jackie Gleason and Milton Berle—returned to network TV and by year's end one of them, Mr. Gleason, had already thrown in the towel on a show that simply wasn't very good. Mr. Berle was not selling the backwoods ablaze as he once did.

The "talk" shows were the surprise successes of the year, mostly because they provided more fireworks for the jaded columnists than any number of "Wagon Trains." Gleason talked to Arthur Godfrey, Oscar Levant talked to Jack Paar (whose show was full of all sorts of other talkers).

Edward R. Murrow talked to a host of film stars and statesmen and writers on "Small World." Talk has hardly flourished like this since Samuel Johnson's coffee house days in the 18th century. And while the 18th century talk was probably better, it was not nearly so profitable. Because, despite a recession, television extracted an estimated $1,374,000,000 from the advertiser in 1958—and that's big business no matter how you look at it.

Hunting Season Over In a Hurry for Sheriff

OKEMAH, Okla. (AP) — Sheriff E. L. Jeter spent weeks talking about and preparing for a deer hunting trip to Colorado.

He took him two days to get to the hunting grounds and considerable time fixing up his camp.

Finally ready to hunt, he walked 200 yards, saw a deer, and felled it. Another deer jumped up, and he shot it, too. So — it took him less than 15 minutes to get his limit.

Open House Set Sunday

Water Firm Will Show Public Its New Facilities

A public inspection of the Marion Water Co.'s new facilities and a brief ceremony at 2 p.m. Sunday officially will mark the completion of improvements.

Costing more than $1,000,000, the improvements include the complete electrification of the plant, the construction of a new filtration plant with a capacity of six million gallons a day, enlargement of the laboratory and chemical building, the construction of a relay pumping station, and the construction of a small dam across the Little Scioto River.

L. OTIS PORTER, manager, said today that special invitations to the open house have gone out to the members of City Council, other city officials, service clubs and other organizations. He stressed that the affair is open to the public. Company officials will be on hand from 1 p.m. on to take visitors on guided tours of the plant and to explain the various operations, he said.

The brief, formal ceremony will begin at 2 p.m. and all visitors will be asked to gather in the new filtration plant building when one of the six filter units will be placed in operation, he said.

A two-story brick building, the filtration plant contains six units with capacity of one million gallons a day. Each has an overload capacity of nearly 100 per cent. This means that if necessary, nearly 12 million gallons of water a day can be pumped through the plant, Mr. Porter said.

THE FILTRATION plant is 160 feet long by 70 feet wide and in addition to the filtration units has a 500,000-gallon clear water storage basin under it.

New laboratory facilities are housed in a one-story wing added to the chemical and laboratory building. The addition is 70 by 80 feet and contains some 5,600 square feet of floor space. Both the new laboratory wing and the filtration building are of brick construction.

In addition to these two major new structures, there is a new pumping station building and the dam behind which some 10 million gallons of water can be stored. Water from the river will be used to supplement the company's supply of well water. Mr. Porter said that installation of equipment for taking water from the river has not yet been completed.

Other improvements of the facilities have included the complete electrification of the pumping facilities to replace the former steam engine driven pumps. There also are standby diesel engines for use in event of electric power failure. The company also has improved its electric power service connections and a number of other pieces of new equipment have been added to the facilities, Mr. Porter said.

Grand Jury To Hear Charges Against 12 Persons Next Week

Marion County's January term grand jury convenes in Common Pleas Court Monday to consider criminal charges against 12 persons.

The jurors will make their report Friday and arraignments are scheduled for the following Monday.

Two of the 12 are charged with unarmed robbery. Arrested by police following a robbery at Grace Tolar's Grocery on W. Center St., they are Opal M. Valodin, 38, of 135 E. Farming St. and Clarence Adkins, 31, of 495 Park St.

Chester A. Jones, 22, of Ashley is charged with assault with intent to rob. Jones was arrested early in November after allegedly attempting to rob C. B. Harris, an attendant at the Dixie Hotel on N. Main St. Harris overpowered Jones and held him for police.

The jurors also will hear evidence to determine whether these other defendants should be tried under the following charges:

Lowell H. Gray, 22, of 124 Forest Lawn Blvd., rape.

William Delauder, 40, of 582 E. Mark St., felonious assault and taking indecent liberties with minor children.

Glendon Kight, 24, of 406 Thompson St., and Robert Short, 18, of near Cardington, auto theft.

Harry L. Armstrong Jr., 19, of 478 W. Columbia St. and James M. Jackson, 33, of 750 Fairfield St., breaking and entering.

Ethbert Brammer, 25, of 650 Emerson Ave., fraud.

Warren R. Rowland Jr., 25, of 1012 Bryant St., and Kenneth E. Benson, 18, of 129 Fairfield St., forcible entry with intent to commit larceny.

Runaway Girls Held

Three juvenile girls who ran away from the Lady of Good Shepherd's Convent in Wheeling, W. Va., are being held at the Marion County Children's Home pending release to West Virginia authorities, state patrolmen here reported today.

Officers said the three girls, aged 14, 15 and 16, were picked up Thursday at 5:30 p.m. on Marion County Rd. 101.

Marine Freed, Trials for Two Others Slated

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—

Two more Marine drill instructors charged with assaulting members of a recruit platoon are scheduled for courts-martial at this Marine training base.

A third instructor was acquitted New Year's eve of assaulting two members of the platoon and of soliciting and accepting money from his recruits.

S. Sgt. Ralph Grant, 26, of Racine, Wis., was found innocent by a general court martial board of seven officers. The verdict was reached after one hour and 10 minutes deliberation.

Thinks Corps Justified

The career Marine commented: "I think the Marine Corps has been justified. I don't see how the verdict could have been anything else."

Charges against Grant and Sgts. Willard Poss of Augusta, Ga., and Ronald Heller of Milwaukee, Wis., stemmed from complaints of a few parents of the all-Ohio "Steel Valley" recruit platoon.

Poss is charged with accepting money from recruits and with assaulting one of them. Heller is charged only with assault.

Defense attorney Carl Sanders, a member of the Georgia State Senate, said he will ask that the other two military trials not be held next week because his time then will be taken up with legislative matters.

'Reasonable and Logical'

In his closing remarks to the military panel, Sanders asserted it was "reasonable and logical" for the court to believe that "we have insidious influences in our country that are at work" to undermine the solidarity of the Marine Corps.

He said that only three of the 42 recruits from whom testimony was taken had given evidence which definitely linked Grant with the alleged offenses.

First Lt. Walter D. Cummings of Chicago, the trial counsel who prosecuted, accused the defense of trying to "smear" the recruits called as prosecution witnesses, as well as some of their parents.

It was the prosecution's contention that Grant had pocketed the money solicited from recruits. The defense claimed the money had gone towards legitimate expenses such as laundry bills.

Navy Sends Aid

HONOLULU (AP)—The Navy Search and Rescue Center reported early today help is on the way for the storm-tossed crewmen of the sunken Japanese fishing vessel Seifuku Maru 135 miles northwest of Midway.

A Navy spokesman said three ships were heading to the rescue of the 24-man crew which boarded life rafts dropped by a Navy plane from Midway.

Protests Attack

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico's ambassador to Guatemala has been ordered to protest orally against an attack on Mexican fishing boats by Guatemalan planes.

A crisis between the two countries appeared to be building up. The Guatemalan government announced Wednesday its planes had gunned three fishing boats trespassing in Guatemala's territorial waters.
